3. Governmental Designations

Designation of the proposed community by a government agency as a region or distinct district – such a regional transportation district, a water district, or a tourism district – is a factor that can be considered in determining whether the area is a local community. The more closely the designation matches the area’s geographic boundaries, the greater the value of that evidence in demonstrating interaction and/or common interests.

Most Persuasive	A division of a federal or state agency specifically designates the proposed service area as its area of coverage or as a target area for specific programs.
Persuasive	A division of a federal or state agency designates a regional area that includes the coverage area, but offers special programs tailored to the common interests shared by the residents of the proposed service area.
Not Persuasive	A division of a federal or state agency designates an area as a coverage area that encompasses several local communities.

4. Shared Public Services/Facilities

The existence of shared services and facilities, such as police, fire protection, park districts, public transportation, airports, or public utilities, can contribute to a finding that an area is a community. The more closely the service area matches the geographic boundaries of the community, and the higher the percentage of residents throughout the community using those services or facilities, the more valuable the data.

Most Persuasive	Statistical evidence documents how residents from the entire proposed service area mutually benefit from a public facility. Formal agreements exist that transcend traditional county lines and provide for a common need shared by all of the residents, such as common police or fire protection.
Persuasive	Public facilities exist that cross county lines and cover the majority of the area’s population, but do not cover the area in its entirety.
Not Persuasive	The applicant cites public facilities that serve areas that do not correlate with the proposed service area.
